EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Arno Naeckel on July 10, 2007.

The application has been amended as follows:

Claim 2, line 18, after "warning", -- to a network administrator --, has been inserted.

Claim 8, line 11, after "warning", -- to a network administrator --, has been inserted.

Claims 14 – 20 have been canceled.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

As to claim 2, the prior art to Ross teaches the method for automating error processing and correction comprising "storing a plurality of defective records in the master database, the plurality of defective billing records having error codes; applying one or more sets of error processing rules to the plurality of defective billing records to correct the billing records in accordance with error codes tat are define; and sending a warning when a defective billing record is encountered by one or more error processing rules that has an undefined error code." However, the prior art combination failed to teach, "receiving a plurality of defective billing records containing raw usage data sent from a plurality of client computer sites, each having legacy usage and billing systems, at a centralized server site including a master database; and sending corrected billing records from the centralized server to the client computer sites that sent the defective billing records for further processing.”

As to claim 8, the prior art to Ross teaches a computer-readable medium storing a plurality of instructions to be executed by a processor for automating error processing and correction comprising “grouping the plurality of defective billing records by a defined error type; applying one or more sets of error processing rules to the plurality of defective billing records to correct the billing records in accordance with error codes tat are define; and sending a warning when a defective billing record is encountered by one or more error processing rules that has an undefined error code.” However, the prior art combination failed to teach, “receiving a plurality of defective billing records containing raw usage data sent from a plurality of client computer sites, each having legacy usage and billing systems, at a centralized server site including a master database; and sending corrected billing records from the centralized server to the client computer sites that sent the defective billing records for further processing.”

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
